Facebook – Important changes

We are changing how we share photos of children on facebook, in response to evolving AI safeguarding concerns.

We're changing the angle, not the story.

You will see pictures of learning, without showing faces. You will see backs of heads, of moments that matter. We will share side facing photos of children, if we have permission from parents. We will not be sharing any front facing photos on Facebook.

We will still have front facing photos on newsletters and Showbie, as these are shared with a closed group (our families), if you have given permission.

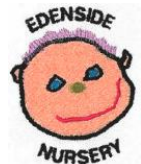

Reading volunteers needed – please

We are looking for volunteers to record themselves reading a chapter book. Creating audio books in this way is one way to support our children with their reading comprehension. Please contact the office if you can help.
